

Learning Coach

JOB DESCRIPTION

The Tumo Center for Creative Technologies is seeking highly motivated, dynamic and tech-savvy professionals who are comfortable experimenting with new technologies and ready to start a career as Learning Coaches at Tumo Beirut.

Tumo's educational methodology is based on hands-on workshops and a large set of self-instructional activities that each of our thousands of students assembles into personal learning plans in areas ranging from animation and game development to robotics and filmmaking.

MAIN RESPONSIBILITIES

Based on an established coaching model the Learning Coaches will work directly with Tumo students to:

- Support their learning process
- Assist them in navigating their personal learning plans
- Offer guidance toward the completion of learning activities
- Provide encouragement and motivation toward harnessing the potential of technologies and self-learning
- Assist in workshop and project coordination in various design and technology related areas
- Track student attendance and provide feedback regarding student development
- Promote learning in a collaborative and energized mode
- Provide feedback to Tumo's content developers to fine tune learning activities

QUALIFICATIONS

- Excellent people skills and facility in working with teenagers
- Familiarity with and ability to learn technical concepts and tools relevant to at least one of the Tumo focus areas
- Multifaceted aptitudes in technical areas such as graphic design or programming, and artistic skills such as drawing or writing
- Willingness to develop higher order skills such as creativity, analytical thinking, and initiative taking, as well as organizational capabilities such as teamwork, communication, and research skills
- Experience on the web and in the use of online resources and tools
- Undergraduate or graduate degree from a recognized university

- Excellent communication skills, including written communication, personal interaction, and public presentation in English

Location: Beirut, Lebanon

What is TUMO?

TUMO is a new kind of educational experience at the intersection of technology and design. At TUMO, teens learn because they want to. They're given the tools and knowhow they need to reach their maximum potential, and they chart their own learning path through hands-on activities, workshops and projects. There are TUMO Centers in Armenia, France and Lebanon, with more locations coming soon around the world.
